

Restorative PRACTICES

A UNIFYING FRAMEWORK FOR SCHOOLS

SPECIAL EVENT Unlike our trainings, which provide participants with information and skills they can use the next day, this One-Day Conference is designed for decision-makers to learn about restorative practices and determine whether they want to bring it to their school or district.

Programs come and go at schools — bullying prevention, character education, mentoring, mediation. Meant to deal with important student behavior and relationship issues, sometimes they work, for a while, or for a segment of the school population. However, they rarely impact the culture of the entire school. What's missing is a unified framework that ties those efforts together. Restorative practices provides the comprehensive framework for a whole-school approach, involving the entire school community: staff, students and families.

November 18, 2008 — Baltimore, MD

Mount Washington Conference Center · 5801 Smith Ave, Suite 1100

What You Will Get

- » the opportunity to hear from and talk to administrators who've implemented restorative practices in their schools
- » a chance to compare notes with colleagues
- » extensive research data on restorative practices and its impact on schools
- » reports on how restorative practices are helping to decrease suspensions, expulsions and detentions in schools
- » stories about the ability of restorative practices to empower staff and students to take active responsibility for behavior and school climate

Agenda 9 a.m.–2 p.m. (Registration 8:30 a.m.)

- » Welcome, overview and research presented by the IIRP staff
- » Keynote speaker Addie Johnson, Principal, The Woodbourne School, Baltimore, MD
- » Video "Beyond Zero Tolerance: Restorative Practices in Schools"
- » Educators' breakout presentations
- » Lunch
- » Question and answer panel
- » Wrap-up and evaluations

"The One-Day Conference was a wonderful introduction to restorative practices and the implications for use in schools. The trainers were enthusiastic and really took the time to answer my questions. I found out that restorative practices provides the link our children need in order to be successful in life. I highly recommend this conference. It really opened my eyes and gave me hope!"

— Marguerite Holliday, Principal,
Samuel Powel Elementary, School District of Philadelphia

Restorative PRACTICES

A UNIFYING FRAMEWORK FOR SCHOOLS

November 18, 2008 — Baltimore, MD

Mount Washington Conference Center · 5801 Smith Ave, Suite 1100

3 WAYS TO REGISTER

Please photocopy for multiple registrations.

Tel (610) 807-9221 or use the form and
 Fax (610) 807-0423 or
 Mail PO Box 229, Bethlehem, PA 18016-0229

Name		Email (please print clearly)
Title/Position		School/Organization
Address
City		State	Zip Code
Day Phone		Fax

PAYMENT $90 per person (includes lunch)

Check # _____ (payable to SaferSanerSchools) enclosed with registration.

PO# _____

Visa MasterCard

Name on Card

Card Number

Expiration Date

CONFIRMATION and TRAVEL DIRECTIONS will be emailed two weeks before the conference. Those registrants who cancel before then will receive a tuition refund (less $25 administrative fee). Within two weeks of the conference, cancellations cannot be accepted; however, participant substitutions may be made any time at no extra cost.

To learn more, call (610) 807-9221 or visit safersanerschools.org